As noted in the disaster declaration, the effective date for this event is August 26, 2017. This event is the result of the severe weather conditions caused by Hurricane Harvey including high winds, heavy rains and devastating flooding throughout the Southeast counties of Texas. These conditions have negatively impacted Frontier’s ability to perform at normal response intervals and may cause delays on installation and repair activities. Standard intervals will not be available during this event.

Any negative impact on performance under your wholesale Interconnection agreements, contracts, tariffs, and any applicable performance plans constitutes a Force Majeure Event as defined in those agreements. Frontier will provide notification once operations have returned to normal conditions and the Force Majeure Event is lifted.
